Sharekhan Research, Bloomberg

Summary

- We retain Buy on V-Guard Industries Limited (V-Guard) with a revised PT of Rs. 311, considering its improving business operations
- V-Guard reported strong revenues and operating margins leading to 79.6% y-o-y growth in net profit which remained better than estimates
- Management expects to get back on to the growth path with a rebound in business environment and highlighted that demand drivers remain healthy across businesses. Expect summer products to come back strongly with some pent-up demand.
- The company's strong balance sheet, cash flow and reputed brand along with strong business fundamentals provide comfort in the present environment.

V-Guard Industries Limited's (V-Guard) Q3FY2021 performance remained strong due to positive market sentiment during the festive season, reflected in significant growth reported across all markets and product categories. The net sales for Q3FY21 surged 32% y-o-y (much better than estimates) to Rs 827 crore led by improved consumer sentiment, festive season and share gain from unorganised sector. The company witnessed improvements in Electronics, electrical businesses and consumer durable businesses (up 35%/31.4% and 30.8% y-o-y). Stabilizers, Wires, Fans, Pumps, Kitchen appliances and Digital UPS categories performed well. South revenues grew 25.3% y-o-y while non-south revenues improved 43% y-o-y. EBITDA margins improved on back of lower A&P spends despite lower gross margins (impact from the recent increase in commodity prices and expected to remain under pressure for next 3-4 months). Higher operating leverage offset by higher tax rate (29.7% vs 24.2% in Q2FY20) led to net profit growth of 79.6%. Going ahead, the management indicated that growth is expected on base of Q4FY19 as Q4FY20 was a washout as secondary sales continue to remain favourable and expect summer products to come back strongly with some pent-up demand. The company targets to improve EBITDA margin by 100bps every two years. Margin improvement from the levels of FY19 is possible in FY22. The company took a price hike in the range of 3-3.5% during Q3FY21. A price increase of an additional 4-7% is required to offset commodity price inflation. The management highlighted that demand drivers remain healthy and it has seen improvement as smaller players are not back to their full operation which is leading to higher share of business coming to larger players. Secondly, a revival in construction activities have broad based improvement in products related to construction/housing. The company focusses on 1) evolving category mix and product mix, 2) go to market with focus on e-commerce and modern trade, 3) distribution enhancement in smaller town and rural along with increase in non-south region and 4) in-organic expansion will generate growth for the company. V Guard has managed to resolve its supply chain issues and channel inventory is at healthy level. Currently e-commerce and modern retail contributes 14-15% of revenue excluding wires. It expects to add 3000 to 4000 retailers every year in non-south region. It has 40,000 retail points with around 18,000 in south and balance in non-south with continuous additions. Earlier the company has entered in water purifier in Q3 and is planning to expand kitchen portfolio like entering hoods and hobs. Company's CFO generation in 9MFY21 remains strong at Rs. 369.4 crore as compared to Rs. 259 crores in 9MFY20 with net cash of Rs 482.3 crore on balance sheet as on 31st Dec, 2020 (vs Rs. 323.2 crore in Dec, 2019) providing the company with the opportunity for inorganic acquisitions at a favourable valuation. We have fine-tuned our earnings estimates for FY2021-FY2022. We believe the company's strong balance sheet, cash flows and reputed brand along with robust business fundamentals provide comfort in the present environment. Hence, we continue to maintain Buy on the stock with revised price target (PT) of Rs. 311.

Key positives

- CFO generation at the end of 9MFY21 at Rs. 369.4 crore 259 crores in 9MFY20.
- Revenues grew 32% with strong growth seen across the segments.

Key negatives

- Gross margins lower due to higher commodity prices.

Our Call

Valuation – We maintain Buy with a revised PT of Rs. 311: V-Guard operations are normal and it has managed to resolve its supply chain issues and expects strong recovery ahead as the demand outlook remains healthy. The company is focused on 1) evolving category mix and product mix, 2) go to market with focus on e-commerce and modern trade, 3) distribution enhancement in smaller town and rural along with increase in non-south region and 4) in-organic expansion will generate growth for the company. The company also has a strong cash balance for inorganic expansion during the current weak environment. Currently, the stock is trading at P/E of 49.4/42.9 its FY2022E/FY2023E EPS. We believe the company's strong balance sheet, cash flows, and reputed brand along with robust business fundamentals will help it emerge stronger from the near-term weak environment. Hence, we continue to maintain Buy on the stock with a revised PT of Rs. 311.

Key Risks

Sustained weak demand environment can affect earnings over the near term.

Outlook and Valuation

■ Sector view - Uncertain environment likely to normalise by H2FY2021

The COVID-19 outbreak and the shutdown led to stoppage of work at most factories, forcing brakes on demand. However, the consumer durable/electrical industry has started reaching near normal demand environment along with channel inventory getting normalised and expectations of demand pick up with onset of the festive season. The government's Atmanirbhar initiative is expected to benefit with capital subsidies and industrial benefit policies being doled out to give a push to in-house manufacturing. Management expects better supply security and margin improvement with in-house manufacturing for the industry. Healthy cash positions to aid companies in inorganic growth opportunities, as organised players benefit from the tough environment.

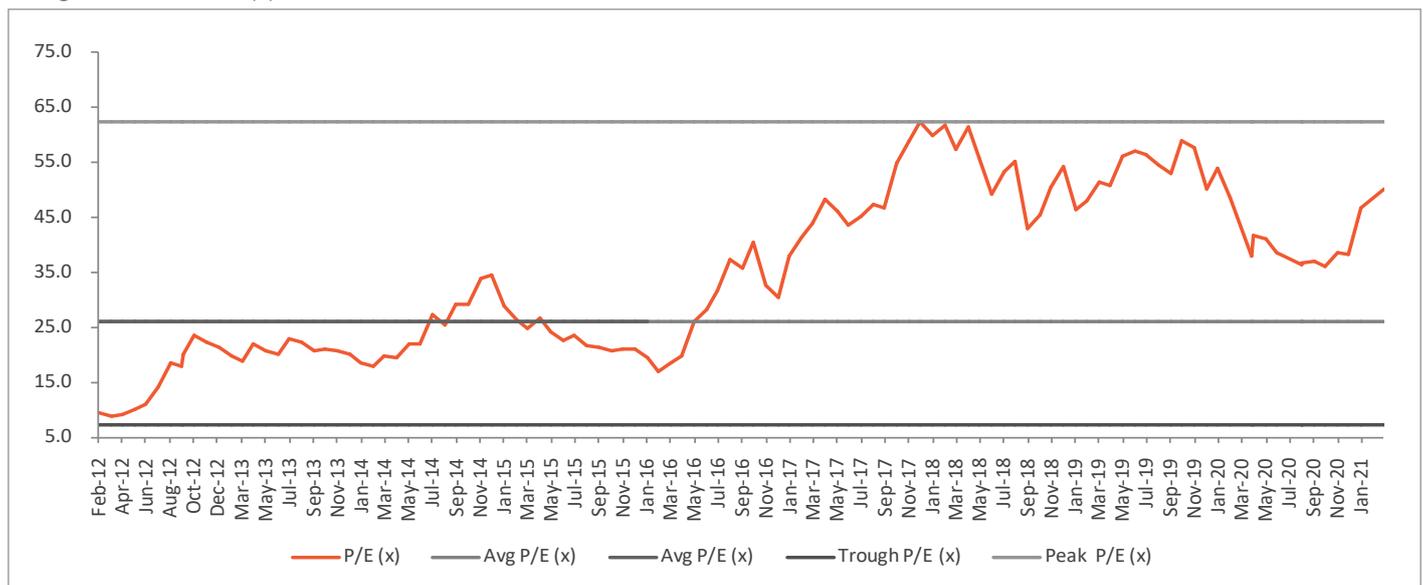

■ Company outlook - Gradually going back to business

V-Guard is witnessing near normal environment Demand recovery in non-metros and suburban regions has been faster compared to metros and tier-1 cities, which aided the company due to higher concentration in these regions. Hence, leaving aside April 2020, the company's performance has been relatively strong. V-Guard has benefited from the faster pick up in rural markets. Demand drivers remain healthy and company has seen improvement on the back of smaller players are not back to their full operation which is leading to higher share of business coming to larger players. Secondly revival in construction activities have broad based improvement in products related to construction/housing. Overall, the management is focusing on maintaining healthy cash position, cost rationalization and expediting digitisation. The cash-positive balance sheet enables it to pursue inorganic opportunities at attractive valuations, given the weak macro environment.

■ Valuation - We maintain Buy with a revised PT of Rs. 311

V-Guard operations are normal and it has managed to resolve its supply chain issues and expects strong recovery ahead as the demand outlook remains healthy. The company focusses on 1) evolving category mix and product mix, 2) go to market with focus on e-commerce and modern trade, 3) distribution enhancement in smaller town and rural along with increase in non-south region and 4) in-organic expansion will generate growth for the company. The company also has a strong cash balance for inorganic expansion during the current weak environment. Currently, the stock is trading at P/E of 49.4/42.9 its FY2022E/FY2023E EPS. We believe the company's strong balance sheet, cash flows, and reputed brand along with robust business fundamentals will help it emerge stronger from the near-term weak environment. Hence, we continue to maintain Buy on the stock with a revised PT of Rs. 311.
