Agrochemicals Company Update

5 March 2025

Sharda Cropchem

Growth momentum to sustain; maintaining a Buy

We recently met Sharda Cropchem's Chairman and MD, Mr R V Bubna to gauge the business outlook. The key takeaways are 1) Management is confident of achieving double-digit revenue growth (guidance raised 26% y/y post Q3 results vs. 15-20% earlier) in FY25, particularly due to volumes and penetration into new markets. 2) Prices are largely stable q/q; however, further price hikes may be difficult to pass on. 3) Major markets of Europe and NAFTA are likely to see double-digit volume growth. 4) The improving margin trend would likely continue in Q4 despite the higher base. 5) Working capital is under control and is likely to improve. We broadly maintain our estimates. We expect revenue/EBITDA/PAT CAGRs of 14%/21%/23% over FY25-27. We, thus, retain our Buy rating, with an unchanged TP of Rs730, 15x FY27e EPS.

Guidance unchanged. Management expects the growth momentum to sustain, supported by the extensive registration pipeline, capex of Rs4bn-4.5bn driving revenue growth and margins being aided by the company's focus on operational efficiency. With realizations expected to rise in a better demand environment globally, management expects revenue of Rs40bn (guidance raised 26% y/y post Q3 results vs. 15-20% earlier), with the EBITDA margin at 15-18% in FY25. Further, management is optimistic regarding nonagrochemical performance and hopes for better demand.

Valuation. We largely maintain our earnings estimates. We expect 14%/21%/23% revenue/EBITDA/PAT CAGRs over FY25-27. The recent correction in the stock price provides an attractive entry point for investors. We, thus, maintain a Buy rating, with an unchanged TP of Rs730, 15x FY27e EPS. We believe risk-reward is favourable for the stock. Risks: Escalation in geopolitical tensions between Russia and Ukraine, forex movements, no major improvement in realisations and delay in registrations.

Key risks

Dependence on monsoon is generally an inherent risk in agrochemicals. Other factors specific to the company are

- Delay in registrations. Delay in securing registrations would lead to revenue loss because of the seasonal nature of the business.
- Forex volatility. As a global manufacturer, it is vastly exposed to foreign currency. It primarily sources active ingredients and formulations from China in dollars and sells to the EU in euros. To a certain extent, it enjoys a natural hedge since a substantial portion of its revenue and expenditure is in foreign currencies. Its foreign-currency exposure over and above this may curb profits.
- Climate. Crop-protection products are affected by extreme climatic conditions (floods, drought, etc.), an inherent risk.
- Dependence on Chinese suppliers. The company depends on Chinese and local vendors for active ingredients and formulations. Adverse movements in Chinese currency, rising labour and environmental compliance costs could notably affect the competitiveness of Chinese manufacturers, which could restrict the company's sourcing.
- Global context; high stocks with distributors; sales returns. If distributors are unable to sell products due to a global slowdown, chances of sales-returns increase, thereby hurting revenue.
