Bank reports discrepancy in derivative book

IndusInd Bank (IIB) has communicated a preliminary one-time hit of $\sim 2.35\%$ of net-worth on its derivative portfolio. We peg the pre-tax hit at ~INR 20bn-21bn. IIB mentioned that these derivative positions pertain to foreign currency deposits/borrowings conversion and not to any client/industry exposure. Since 1 Apr'24, the bank has stopped internal hedging, post which, around Sep'24, it identified the discrepancies. The hit is likely to be routed through P&L in Q4FY25, which in our view, could severely dent reported profitability; may even report a loss in Q4FY25. We recently downgraded the stock to REDUCE (link here) on the curtailed term extension of the incumbent MD & CEO. We believe the discrepancies reflect poorly on internal control. Maintain REDUCE.

Bank reports ~INR 20bn–21bn discrepancies in derivative book

During an internal review of processes relating to other asset and other liability accounts of its derivative portfolio, post implementation of RBI's new regulations effective 1 Apr'24, IIB noted discrepancies in these account balances. The bank's internal review has estimated an adverse impact of ~2.35% of net-worth. We believe the hit is on a post-tax basis; in an absolute term, the hit comes out at ~INR 20-21bn. IIB has also appointed a reputed external agency to independently review. The final report of the external agency is likely to be out by end-Mar'25.

Reflects poorly on internal control; Q4FY25 may report loss

The bank mentioned that these derivative positions pertain to foreign currency deposits/borrowings conversion. In simple words, while the MTM on external hedge was reflecting true picture, the internal hedge had different methodology; leading to the bank over-reporting NII / trading gains and thus overall profits. The discrepancy was visible in cases where the actual tenure of the internal and external legs was not similar due to premature rundown. Since 1 Apr'24, IIB has stopped the internal hedging, post which, around Sep'24, it identified the discrepancies. We believe this reflects poorly on internal controls. The hit is likely to run through P&L, and the bank could even report a loss in Q4FY25.

Maintain REDUCE on heightened near-term uncertainty

We maintain our recently downgraded rating on IIB at REDUCE (link). Our TP of INR 850 remains unchanged, valuing the stock at ~0.9x FY26E ABV. Risks: Betterthan-expected growth; and seamless management transition.

Takeaways and our reading from the conference call

Bank identifies ~INR 20-21bn hit on derivative portfolio

- During an internal review of processes relating to other asset and other liability accounts of the derivative portfolio, post implementation of RBI Master Direction, applicable from 1 Apr'24, the bank noted some discrepancies in these account balances.
- The bank's internal review estimates an adverse impact of ~2.35% of net-worth.
- The above is post tax; thus, the pre-tax is even higher at ~INR 20–21bn.
- The hit is unlikely to be adjusted through General Reserves and would be routed through P&L.
- The difference has been accumulated with time and pertains to FY24, or earlier period.

Nature and cause of discrepancy

- The derivative position pertains to foreign currency deposits/borrowings conversion to INR. The derivative does not pertain to any client or industry exposure. The bank has been following the same practices/procedures for the last 5–7 years.
- The external trade was marked to market (MTM) which recorded the true value at period end. The internal trade was accounted using SWAP cost, impacting assets book (vs P&L). This would not create any difference if the underlying exposure would run its contractual tenure as both legs of the trade would set-off at the end of the period.
- However, in case, the exposure runs down prematurely, the external trade would record MTM immediately while internal trade was not adequately reflecting the true picture. In a way, the bank had instances of over-reported profitability.

Identification and action plan

- Since 1 Apr'24, the bank has stopped the internal hedging. Post which, around Sep'24, it identified some discrepancies.
- The discrepancies were identified internally. IIB has appointed an external auditor.
- The final report of the external agency is likely to be out by end-Mar'25. The final hit may be too early to compute as external investigation is ongoing. However, it believes that the final hit should be broadly around its estimates.

RBI supervision and succession

- CFO resignation did not have anything to do with this discrepancy, as per the bank.
- RBI risk-based supervision exercise had already concluded in Sep-Oct'24.
- No explanation given by RBI on one-year term extension. Board shall evaluate internal and external candidates for the MD & CEO position.

MFI

- On MFI, IIB mentioned that flow from X bucket is trending well, except for Karnataka, where flows are now stabilising. However, forward flow from bucket may continue to run through.
- Q4 may have some adverse impact; however, it is expected to start recovery from Q1FY26 onwards.
